WHEELING, DECEMBER 6, 1899.

The President's Messago. President McKinley begins his mes sage to the Fifty-sixth Congress with a touching reference to the death of Vice President Hobart, who stood to him in the relations not only of a close political associate but in the light of the more tender ties of comradery, of distinct congeniality of tastes and marked social intimacy. After congratulating the country on the phenomenally prosperous condition of the business and industrial interests the President calls attention to the succeas of the recent bond purchases of the treasury department, by which the government accomplished a net saving Interest of $2,885,006. A modification of the national banking act is recom mended to suit the public utility, and the support of the gold standard is advocated on the lines outlined by the Republican caucus measure, including the relative financial policies of the party for the making of a stable and sound currency.

The attention of Congress is called to the combinations of capital organized into trusts which tend to stifle competition, limit production and determine the prices of products used and consumed by the people, more especially when they partake of the nature of a The enlargement of markets in China for the raw products and manufactures of the United States is of vital importance, owing to the threatened partition of that empire, and special privileges and cessions enjoyed by the great powers, and the President renews his recommendations of last year for a ommission to study its commercial and Industrial conditions with reference to our opportunities for larger commercia relations with the people of the Far

The President takes occasion to em phasize the fact that we have remained faithful to the precept of avoiding entangling alliances with foreign powers by maintaining an attitude of strice neutrality in the contest between Great Britain and the South African states, and adds that had circumstances suggested kindly intervention to avert war, the good offices of the government would have been gladly tendered.

ence of Cuba the President says that the pledge made by Congress in this respect is of the highes, honorable obligation, and must be sucredly kept.

Turkey is not treating us right. The situation of our citizens in that country is far from satisfactory, and the claims of Americans for injuries suffered in the disorders in that country years ago have not been settled. Besides this American productions have suffered artrary treatment.

The cession of the Philippine Islands by Spain was accepted, says the President, not merely by our authorized commissioners in Paris under the direc tion of the Executive, but by the constitutional and well considered action of the representatives of the people in both houses of Congress. "I had every reason to believe," continues the President, "and I still believe, that this transfer of sovereignty was in accord with the wishes and aspirations of the great mass of the Filipino people." Th President refrains from any suggestion as to the final disposition of the islands, explicitly stating that their future government rests entirely with Congress; but until that matter is settled the authority and sovereignty of the United States will be vigorously upheld by the administration and our treaty rights firmly enforced. These are the main topics discussed in the document which deals of other subjects in an equally comprehensive and conservative manner and in which pledges made to the country in 1896, and no deviation from the principles of the Republican party which are pregnant with the prosperity and the ultimate aims and destiny of the Nation,

Secretary of the Treasury Gage, in his report to Congress on the state of affairs in his department, very naturally devotes considerable space to the dis cussion of the financial situation of the country, which, he says, exhibits a strength never before equaled. What is needed to assure a continuance of this condition is the one word stability. By this he means that to preserve a mote to justify present consideration but if those who still cherish it shall offer it in objection to the action above proposed, it is a sufficient answer to say that stability on the gold standard is the only stability now possible to us, and if the time should come when international agreement offers a safe and our representative form of government will give to our people the liberty of

"If it be true, as true it undoubtedly is," continues the secretary, "that gold is now our standard of money values. the future needs only the assurance that it will so continue to be, until at least the people shall be so united in their desire for a change therein as to be able to direct the voice of both houses of Congress, and secure the approving sig nature of the Chief Executive. confidence that Congress will furnish this kind of a guaranty has inspired enterprise, called capital into use, im-proved the condition of labor, and given new impotus to all our energies. To make this favorable state of affairs permanent, the highest security should be given that the common denominator of all calculations in value shall remain inchanged."

The most effective way to accomplish this, the secretary suggests, would be to declare that the credit obligations of the government itself, whether payable on demand or at a future period, shall be paid in gold coin of present weight and fineness; or it would be equally effective if, by positive law, it were made nandatory upon the treasury department so to pay and receive the two kinds of money—silver and gold—as to maintain their parity under all conditions. In other words the incorporation of the gold standard for money values into the law of the land. To-day the commercial ratio of gold to silver at the average price is 1 to 34.08, yet owing to the present financial policy of the government the silver dollar as a pur chasing power is on a parity with gold, and will be so maintained by the legislation contemplated.

Effect of Senator Hayward's Death. The death yesterday of Senator-elect Hayward, of Nebraska, will result in the loss of one Republican vote in the senate and will give that state a representation in the upper house of Con rress not intended by the people. Mr. Hayward was the Republican nominee or governor in 1898, but was defeated by Poynter, the Populist-Democratic andidate, by the small plurality of .721. The legislature, however, Republican by thirteen majority on joint ballot, and Mr. Hayward was revarded for the good fight he had made as the head of the state ticket by election to the United States senate. While not officially a member of that body, not having been sworn in, still his eath was lamented in Washington mong his prospective colleagues, who haracterized him as a very able man. Since he was stricken with paralysis here has been a disgraceful scramble mong the Brynnites for his feat. They did not have the decency to wait until was dead, but commenced their wire pulling in an open manner weeks ago lovernor Poynter, himself, it is said, would be willing to resign in favor of Lieutenant Governor Gilbert, if ould be given positive assurance that would appoint him, but this heme will hardly work.

Bryan's name is mentioned, and he ould have it, if he pushed his claims. On this point the Chicago Inter Ocean "Bryan's political plans are suffi lently well known. He expects to be inated for President next year by the Populist-Democratic party. He can hardly hope to be elected, but he does hope to hold Nebraska and to secure the election of a Bryanite legisla date to succeed Thurston, whose term the senate will expire in 1901. The chance of a senatorship as a consolaion for his failure to reach the presidency has undoubtedly been the aninating force of Bryan's recent political ctivities."

Mormon Roberts' case is now in the tands of a committee, where it will be almly considered, free from the shout ing of the multitude. It is a momen-tous question and will, no doubt, be given the consideration it deserves. The Intelligencer is in sympathy with the stastants but sympathy and the law are frequently at odds. The aw and the facts must govern the case.

Captain Dovener has finally succeedd in "metting off the reservation." the last Congress the captain's scat was in the "Cherokee strip," but in the drawing this session he has been more fortunate and is comfortably settled in the middle aisle on the Republican side, entirely free from the atmosphere of the "Iron weeds."

As to trusts? Read what President McKinley says as to combinations of capital that partake of menopolistic tendencies. His words have the true ring, and are shorn of the reckless hue and cry of the demagogues who blindly all combinations of capital as harmful to the public interests.

Those demagogues who have been frantically claiming that this country and Great Britain had a secret understanding will please observe President McKinley's assertion that the United States has remained faithful to the precept of avoiding entangling alliances with foreign powers.

Really, some kind friend should have the curfewrung for John Tergiversation McGraw.

And Finest Ever Seen in Wheeling is Likely-Arion Singing Society Offers to Provide an Immense Male Chorus at the Tablet Setting Ceremonies-Discussion of the Financial Needs of the Affair.

Last night at the office of Chairman Garvin, there was a largely attended meeting of the Fort Henry tablet committee, together with the sub-commit-tee on finance. There were present There were present Chairman Garvin, Messrs, Cranmer, White, Caldwell, Horkheimer, Hamilton. Waterhouse.

The sum of $250 having been appropriated by the legislature for the purchase of the Fort Henry tablet, and the tablet itself having cost only $110, Chairman Garvin was instructed to ask Governor Atkinson to allow the use of the balance, $140, for partially defraying the expenses of the tablet setting. It was agreed that a cement foundation is necessary.

The matter of a parade on "Dewey Day," was taken up, and on motion of Judge Cranmer, the committee formally decided to have one. Later a subcommittee on parade will be appointed, that will have charge of this feature.

It was reported that the Arion Sing ing Society had appointed a committee to arrange for an immense male chorus in connection with the tablet setting ceremonies. The committee learned of this step with pleasure.

Informally there was a discussion as to programme, and it appears settled that the parade will occur early in the afternoon (or possibly in the morning), to be followed by the tablet setting and sword presentation, and later a public reception to Admiral Dewey (probably at the Carroll Club, which has been so kindly offered).

It has been decided that at least $1,000 will be needed, and possibly more. The finance committee will defer its campaign until the general committee gets further along with its plans of entertainment, etc.

It was decided to invite the presence of Governors Atkinson, of West Virginia; Stone, of Pennsylvania, and Nash, of Ohio.
